

CALL FOR APPLICATIONS

South Eastern Kenya University has received funding to support studies at Master and PhD levels under the “A Sustainable Approach to Livelihood Improvement” (ASALI) Project.

The study will be carried out in Kenya under the direction of the South Eastern Kenya University office of the ASALI Project.

The funding will cover research costs only. Applicants must, therefore, be registered in a university recognised by the South Eastern Kenya University Senate and should have successfully completed their course work and have been cleared to embark on the fieldwork/data collection.

Those interested and are qualified may submit their applications to the SEKU ASALI Principal Investigator, Prof. Mary Mburu on e-mail: mmburu@seku.ac.ke by Tuesday 26th February 2019.

www.seku.ac.ke

Arid to Green-----Transforming Lives